MAINTAINING THEIR ACCREDITATION INDEPENDENTLY
Ontario	Jmee Lynn Widjaya

Since September 2007, credit union directors have been able to earn a credential that attests to their knowledge and understanding of board governance. The accreditation – Accredited Canadian Credit Union Director – is jointly awarded by the Credit Union Institute of Canada (the designation arm of the Canadian Credit Union Association) and Dalhousie University in Halifax, Nova Scotia.

Join the Canadian Credit Union Association in celebrating the credit union system's Accredited Canadian Credit Union Directors as of March 2018. These individuals, all graduates of the CUDA[®] Program, took "the next step" in their commitment to providing excellence in corporate governance and every year, renewing that commitment through continuing governance education.

Why Become Accredited? Read on!

Credibility amongst membership that I have achieved a standard of training that is measurable. Not only did I 'attend' the CUDA modules, but I have achieved a standard beyond attendance - Russ Siemens

I believe that [this accreditation] adds to our board's credibility with our members and in the larger CU community. It reinforces our board's focus on Governance and Education. I am the second member of our board to achieve accreditation - Donna Taylor

It is important that directors today have as much information and knowledge as possible. It is a difficult regulatory environment and our democratic election of members to directors does not ensure that our boards have all the required competencies - Lynne Fraser
